- Earthquake – surviving the big one written especially for residents of coastal BC. It will prepare you for all aspects of an earthquake.
- Common and uncommon school problems
Every crisis from “the dog ate my homework” to “we got a call from the Principal today”...this essential guide explains the normal stages kids go through from preschool to high school, and helps parents diagnose and intervene to prevent small problems from growing serious.
- Childrens’ minds
Shows how thought and language originally depend upon the interpersonal contexts within which they develop, and how, given the support of such contexts, children are already skilled thinkers and language users by the time they come to school.
- In their own way
This book speaks to millions of parents and teachers with children who are experiencing less than desirable success in school. It shows that in most cases children are individuals with distinct personal learning styles and explains how to help them acquire knowledge according to these sometimes extraordinary aptitudes.
- Self-esteem: A family affair
This book concerns all kinds of family settings, and the ways self-esteem is nourished for both parents and children. It offers creative ways to help self-esteem flourish for everyone using theory and techniques based on transactional analysis.
- The challenge of child welfare
This work examines a number of issues, which represent the state of the art of child welfare in Canada. Several main themes emerge in the book- one being the lack of standardization of child welfare policy and practice in Canada since each province has its own regulations and policies and the dismantling of social service programs.
- A difference in the family
A frank chronicle of the grief, rage and guilt everyone in a family suffers, and the adjustments each makes to accommodate the disabled child.
- Remaking mother hood
How working mothers are shaping our children’s future.
- What do I do now?
Talking about teen pregnancy
- Professional child and youth care
Provides a comprehensive analysis of the child and youth care field in Canada.
